

Victoria Corregidor (Univ. de Lisboa, Portugal) received her PhD in Physics in 2003 by Autónoma University of Madrid, Spain. Since 2008, at Center for Nuclear Sciences and Technologies from Instituto Superior Técnico, Victoria is focused on Ion Beam Analysis techniques and data analysis. Different type of materials are characterized, for example: semiconductors with photovoltaic applications or cultural heritage materials such as metals or paper.