

Dr. Georgios Provatas is a research associate at the Laboratory for Ion Beam Interactions (LIBI) of the Ruđer Bošković Institute (RBI), Croatia. He is a nuclear physicist with experience in the development and applications of instrumentation for ion beam and other nuclear related techniques. As part of LIBI he is responsible in many activities involving several detector developments and studies by means of the ion beam induced charge (IBIC) technique.