

Dr. Anna Widdowson works on the JET nuclear fusion tokamak based at the United Kingdom Atomic Energy Authority. Her research area is in plasma wall interaction. Her work centres around the analysis of JET plasma facing components removed from JET to study fuel retention and material erosion, migration and deposition. This presentation shows how accelerator based techniques are used to determine fuel inventory data for the JET.