

Prof. Niki Bergans has more than 15 years of experience in radiation protection, as radiation protection expert of the university hospitals of Leuven (Belgium). As assistant professor at the faculty of medicine of KULeuven she gives training courses on radiation protection and the legal aspects. She conducts research on radiation protection and dosimetry topics within the laboratory of experimental radiotherapy of the department of oncology of KULeuven. She also acts as consultant on radiation protection in several national advisory councils such as the Belgian Society for Radiation Protection and the Superior Health council.